AltTab provides a quick and convenient way to toggle through your currently open windows. Instead of having to switch keyboard and mouse focus among multiple windows, AltTab can do the job without the labor of switching applications. AltTab does this by completely moving your current focus and placing the keyboard focus in the next window in order. The application uses the currently focused window as a reference for what is next in the application stack to maximize your efficiency and minimize stress on your muscles. The application is very intuitive and easy to use. It provides a powerful set of features that can be used to your advantage. While AltTab is very powerful, it is very basic. In order to make AltTab usable for people of all types and abilities, we made it very simple and intuitive to use. For the most part, the user interface is self-explanatory.
